RefQuest Plus (RQ+), the new NCAA officiating services provider, and College Football Officiating (CFO) have collaborated to offer TASO Football members a deeply discounted registration of $40 for the 2023 season. Access to the CFO central hub includes searchable rules book and case book, video content, tests and quizzes, and various updates throughout the season. This information represents everything an official will need to improve the great game of football we all love. Here's a quick overview of the features.

VIDEO CONTENT AND COLLABORATION

National training videos as well as CFO game reviews are available and updated in the preseason as well as throughout the season. You will have access to in-season CFO Game Video Reviews, preseason weekly CFO/NCAA Annual Training videos and occasional topical videos. Officials will have the opportunity to see plays posted by coordinators from conferences across the country and all videos can be viewed on a multitude of devices and is mobile friendly. This is a terrific visual learning tool.

TESTING AND QUIZ CAPABILITIES

The NCAA national rules test features 100 questions and represents a great way to start your pre-season efforts. The testing interface is extremely user friendly and can be taken multiple times over the course of multiple sessions. Downloadable pdf's will be available before and after the test. Each member is allowed two opportunities to merit a passing grade. Following the closing of the test, results of the test will be made available. Rogers Redding always challenged members to score at least 90% while taking the test "closed book." Are you up for the challenge?

The CFO central hub offers preseason quizzes and is ready for engagement. During the season, bi-weekly tests are available to help members stay sharp and prepared. This effective tool leads to great rules discussions with fellow officials.
